

Creating A Basic Japanese Study Schedule

PERAPERADREAMS.COM

START WITH A CALENDAR

Note the days & times that you can study for a minimum of 20 minutes per day

- Aim for studying daily

Also make a note of where you will be studying and common obstacles

DETERMINE WHAT TOPIC YOU WILL BE STUDYING

Vocabulary

- What category/categories?

Grammar

- Individually or in groups

Kanji

Listening

Reading

Speaking

DETERMINE WHAT YOU WILL NEED TO STUDY & HOW YOU WILL STUDY

Flashcard decks

- Pre-made or will you make them? (If you're making them, you'll need to designate a time just for creating the flash card deck(s).)

Textbook(s)

Miscellaneous

- Websites
- YouTube
- Dictionary
- FluentU

HAVE A GOAL IN MIND

- Something measurable and attainable

(i.e. "To understand how to use a grammar point; By making example sentences and completing some kind of quiz/workbook questions")

- Bad goal example: To understand 10 grammar points after 1 session

STUDY ONE TOPIC AT A TIME

- One or two per day MAXIMUM
